Live Stream the 2017 National Conference

The Volunteer Management Professionals of Canada (VMPC), Administrators of Volunteer Resources BC (AVRBC) and our sponsor, Better Impact have partnered to bring you day 2 of the 2017 National Conference taking place on Friday, May 12 in Victoria, BC via a live stream feed over the internet.

This is the perfect opportunity for your volunteer centre, professional association or organization to bring together your local volunteer management colleagues for a day of professional development and networking. It is also a way for you to participate virtually in the conference and get involved in national discussions via twitter.

The theme of the conference is Leading for Transformation and we have some exciting keynotes planned to help you transform your own leadership and also guide you in navigating volunteers through organizational change.

KEYNOTE PRESENTATIONS

Transform your Leadership

Christina Sestan, is an ambitious, energetic and dynamic coach, facilitator, and speaker with fifteen years of organizational development experience, focusing on leadership development and peak performance in a variety of organizational settings. In her keynote, participants will have an opportunity to examine their own unique leadership style while exploring ways to leverage their impact in a way that creates more of the outcomes they want while advancing the profession as a whole. Using relatable anecdotes and simple models, this session will leave participants feeling confident and able to apply their learning in new ways.

Leading through Organizational Change

Melissa Ketler has specialized for the past 10 years in the development of creating high-functioning and effective teams. She has a focus on culture, leadership development, organizational solutions, and employee engagement. She is a change management specialist who knows that leading people through successful change management requires a systematic process of effective communication and the strategic involvement of people who will be affected. To ensure the change initiative stays on time and on budget, it needs to be done right. Melissa's keynote presentation discusses what you will need to consider in forming the communication approaches and the involvement of others in your change management initiative. At the end of the session, participants should have a clear set of tools to successfully lead people through organizational change.
